Protection of children at work: employment of children byelaws

1 The Council on 14 August 2002 made new byelaws for the employment of children at work within Argyll and Bute. These were confirmed by Scottish Ministers on 24 June 2003 and came into force on 29 August 2003. These byelaws revoke the existing Strathclyde Regional Council byelaws insofar as they relate to the area of Argyll and Bute Council. A copy of the new byelaws is attached to this circular. The purpose of the byelaws is to ensure that children who are employed would only work to the extent that their health, developm

4 The Council have made byelaws allowing 13 year olds to be allowed to work on an occasional basis in categories of light work. These categories are listed in byelaw 5 and include agricultural or horticultural work where employed by the child's parents or carers; delivery of newspapers, journals and other printed material and collection of payment for same (where they are collecting payment they must be under the supervision of an adult); shop work including shelf stacking; hairdressing salons; office work; car washing by hand in a private residential setting; in a café or restaurant; in riding stables; domestic work in hotels and other establishments offering accommodation. Other key provisions are included in the following.

- Byelaw 3 lists employment which is not permitted for a child of any age.
- Byelaw 6 states that children can only be employed for a maximum of 1 hour after 7 o'clock in the morning before the start of the school day on any day in which they are required to attend school.
- Byelaw 7 states that no child may be employed in any work out-of-doors unless wearing suitable clothes and shoes.
- Byelaws 16 to 19 regulate street trading and state that children over 14 are only able to be employed in street trade if they are in the employment of and supervised by their parents. Children over 14 are not permitted to take part in street trading on Sunday and require to obtain a street trader's licence from a local authority.

Penalties

5 If a person is employed in contravention of section 28 of the act or of any of these byelaws, the employer or any other person who is responsible for the act of default shall be liable to a fine up to level 3 of the standard scale. This is currently £1000. A person under compulsory school age who engages in street trading in contravention of section 30 of the act, or of these byelaws, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding level 1 of the standard scale. This is currently £200.

Permits for work

6 A completed application form (see attached) will require to be submitted by the reasonable grounds to believe that:

- the child is being unlawfully employed;
- his or her health, welfare or ability to take advantage of his or her education is suffering as a result of the employment;

Where they have been informed that an employment permit has been granted, head teachers/campus principals should advise the School Services Support Manager timeously of any concerns which arise with regard to the child's education and which could be related to their employment. School Support will hold a register of all permits issued which will be available for head teachers/campus principals to inspect as required.

Irrespective of their age, children may only carry out light work. Light work has been defined in the terms of byelaws to mean all work where the inherent nature of the tasks and the particular conditions under which they are performed are not likely to be harmful to safety, health or development, and are not such as to be harmful to their attendance at school, their participation in vocational guidance or training programmes, or a work experience scheme under section 123 of the Education (Scotland) Act 1980, or their capacity to benefit from instruction received.

Although byelaws stipulate employment which is permitted and employment which is not permitted, many more occupations and specific tasks are prohibited by other legislation, even if they would constitute light work. These include:

- The Employment of Women, Children and Young Persons Act 1920, which prohibits the employment of children in any "industrial undertaking" including mines and quarries, manufacturing industry, construction and the transport of passengers or goods by road, rail or inland waterway.
- The Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, under which it is an offence to permit a child to ride on, or drive, a vehicle, machine or agricultural implement.
- The Office, Shops and Railways Premises Act 1963, which provides that no young person may clean machinery if it would expose him or her to risk or injury (section 18).
- The Betting, Gaming, Lotteries Act 1953, which prohibits the employment of children or young people under 18 in effecting any betting transaction or in a licensed betting office (section 21).
- The Licensing (Scotland) Act 1976, which prohibits the employment of children in the bar of licensed premises (section 17.72).
- The Merchant Shipping Act 1995, by virtue of which no persons under minimum school leaving age will be employed on a ship registered in the UK except if permitted under the regulations made under the act (section 55).

- The Manual Handling Regulations 1992 which prohibits children from handling any load which is likely to cause injury to them.
- The Children (Performances) Regulations 1968 which provide that no child taking part in a performance for which a licence is required by section 37 of the Children and Young Persons Act 1963 may be employed in any other occupation on the day or days of that performance or the following day.
- The Children (Protection at Work) (Scotland) Regulations 2000, provide that only persons aged at least 16 and who are eligible to leave school may take part in dangerous performances[1].

Please note that this is not an exhaustive list and in case of doubt head teachers/campus principals should make contact as outlined in the following paragraph.

Head teachers/campus principals with any enquiries about the procedures above should, in the first instance, contact the School Services Support Manager on ext 8509.

Yours sincerely
