

Section 1: About the proposal

Title of Proposal

Child Poverty Action Plan Review 2021 - 2022
--

Intended outcome of proposal

The Child Poverty (Scotland) Act 2017 places a duty on local authorities and health boards to report annually on activity they are taking and will take to reduce child poverty. This review report aims to meet that obligation. Progress and challenges are noted and proposed new work is flagged up.

It is intended that children, young people and other stakeholders are able to see what actions are being taken to tackle child poverty in Argyll and Bute.

Description of proposal

This is the third review of the initial Child Poverty Action Plan Report, published in June 2019; reviews will take place annually up to 2030.

Business

Section 2: Evidence used in the course of carrying out EqSEIA

Consultation / engagement

Section 3: Impact of proposal

Impact on service users:

Negative	No impact	Positive	Don't know
----------	--------------	----------	---------------

If any 'don't know's' have been identified, at what point will impacts on these groups become identifiable?

How has 'due regard' been given to any negative impacts that have been identified?
No negative impacts identified.

Section 4: Interdependencies

Is this proposal likely to have any knock-on effects for any other activities carried out by or on behalf of the council?

The work detailed in the Child Poverty Action Plan Review, links to a number of different areas. For example it affirms work being children's rights into policy and practice. This review notes a wide range of poverty focused actions taking place in areas including: employability, housing, fuel poverty, benefits and social security, perinatal mental health, youth work, free school meals and free period products.

Details of knock-on effects identified

As a plan that brings diverse actions under the umbrella of tackling child poverty, it works to give a clearer picture of the whole and facilitates multi-agency working and new work. Examples of this would include the Flexible Food Fund and the help and advice book "Do You Have Money Worries". Another good example would be the range of training events for staff and others that has been delivered this year and is ongoing. These offer poverty awareness as well as practical skills in addressing poverty issues. This training will have a very positive knock-on effect in the practice of participants and the lives of service users supported, respected and understood better as a consequence. By doing this, the review and the work it reflects, has the potential to impact on most of the Council's / Health Board's / Partner activities. It is also felt that by raising the importance of addressing child poverty and better understanding the needs of children and families, decision making across the Council, Health Board and partners, will be improved.

Section 5: Monitoring and review

How will you monitor and evaluate the equality impacts of your proposal?

Equality impacts will be monitored by the Argyll and Bute CPAG. This group will ensure that each activity produces positive outcomes for children and meets the aims and objectives of the Councils Outcome Improvement Plan 2013 – 2023 and its Equality Policy. The group will also ensure that key legislation is adhered to, including: Fairer Scotland Duty 2018; Child Poverty (Scotland) Act 2017; Equality Act 2010; Child and Young People (Scotland) Act 2014. Outcomes of monitoring will be reflected in the minutes of the groups meetings, reports to governance groups (CPP, IJB etc.) and in the next annual review report. In all its actions the group will ensure that the rights of children are respected and due regard is given to the UNCRC and The Promise.